OUR MISSION

At the Franklin Food Pantry, our mission is to alleviate food insecurity and compassionately empower our community through resources and collaboration. But our work goes far beyond providing food—it's about ensuring every individual who walks through our doors is met with dignity, respect, and a warm welcome.

We believe that access to nutritious food is a basic human right, not a privilege. Through our new Food is Medicine Initiative, we are deepening our commitment to offering healthy, high-quality options like milk, eggs, fresh produce, and frozen proteins—every day, for every client. We prioritize nutrition and nutrition education because our clients deserve food that nourishes both body and spirit.

Creating a welcoming, stigma-free environment remains at the heart of our work. Whether it's greeting a client by name, helping someone navigate available resources, or simply taking time to listen, we strive to ensure every interaction is rooted in dignity and respect. The Pantry is more than a place to access nutritious food—it is a community where people feel valued, supported, and connected.

Together, we're not just fighting hunger—we're fostering hope and fueling change.

A MESSAGE FROM TINA

DEAR FRIEND,

This year, the Franklin Food Pantry faced a level of need unlike anything we have ever experienced—even exceeding the demand experienced during the pandemic.

As food prices remained high, economic uncertainty persisted, and federal support systems changed, more families turned to us for help. The need was urgent and growing. Our community answered the call with extraordinary generosity in response to our Urgent Appeal, providing the resources needed to not only sustain our services, but to strengthen and expand them.

Together, we opened a new Mobile Pantry site, extended our reach into four additional communities, and launched our innovative Food is Medicine Initiative that recognizes the critical connection between nutrition and health. These efforts reflect our commitment to expanding access to nutritious food while ensuring every neighbor can receive support with dignity and equity.

Our work is guided by a simple premise: healthy food is a basic human right.

We know that hunger is rarely just about food. Families facing food insecurity often face transportation barriers, health challenges, and financial pressures that make accessing healthy food difficult. Addressing hunger requires more than filling a grocery bag—it requires creating pathways to health and stability.

As demand reached record levels, our volunteers, donors, partners, Board and staff responded with remarkable compassion and determination. At a time of growing uncertainty, you helped ensure that thousands of individuals and families were not left behind. This collective commitment was recognized in a meaningful way when the Franklin Food Pantry was honored as the Greater Boston Food Bank's Agency Partner of the Year—an award that reflects the strength of our partnerships and the dedication of everyone who makes this work possible.

None of this would have been possible without you.

To our volunteers, donors, partners, staff, Board, and supporters: thank you. Your generosity and dedication made this work possible.

This annual report reflects what we accomplished together. It tells a story of resilience, innovation, and community action. Together, we are responding to hunger today and helping build a healthier, stronger, and more equitable community for tomorrow.

With gratitude,

WHO WE SERVE

The Pantry served 2,411 clients—431 seniors, 1,302 adults, and 678 children in FY26—whose lives reflect the challenges many in our community face. Our clients include seniors navigating chronic health setbacks, two-income families stretched thin by escalating household expenses, and children struggling to focus at school because of hunger. Others turn to us after unexpected job loss or medical expenses make it impossible to make ends meet. There is no single story that defines who comes to The Pantry for help. Instead, we serve people from every walk of life, reminding us that food insecurity can affect anyone at any time.

My husband lost his job and once his unemployment benefits ran out, our budget was extremely tight. The Pantry helped us for a year until I got a better job. It was a hard and humbling experience, but I am grateful for The Pantry and the volunteers!

CLIENT HIGHLIGHT

The Franklin Food Pantry is so much more than a place to get food. It’s a place where I feel supported. Every time I walk through The Pantry door, I am reminded that I live in a community where people truly care about one another.

ANTHONY, a devoted husband, father, and Franklin Food Pantry client, found that asking for assistance challenged a lifetime of self-reliance.

Walking through the doors of a food pantry for the first time is more than a financial hurdle—it is an emotional one.

“As the provider for my household, I felt like I was supposed to be able to take care of everyone on my own,” Anthony shares. “Because of that, having to ask for help was incredibly difficult for me. But even the strongest people sometimes need a hand.”

Like many first-time clients, Anthony worried about being judged. His experience at The Pantry proved entirely the opposite. He was met with kindness, compassion, and professionalism that transformed a vulnerable moment into a comfortable, dignified experience.

In addition to receiving fresh produce, healthy food, and personal care items, Anthony was connected by The Pantry to SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) and other public assistance programs. These resources help households address other essential expenses—such as housing, utilities, and clothing—that often compete with food in already stretched budgets.

The experience did more than just fill Anthony’s cupboards—it provided the stability his family needed to move toward long-term security.

OUTREACH PROGRAMS

Access is the foundation of equity. For many households, transportation limitations, health concerns, work schedules, or caregiving responsibilities can make it difficult to visit a traditional food pantry. Our outreach programs are designed to meet people where they are—bringing food, resources, and support directly into the communities we serve. By reducing barriers, we help ensure that healthy food is accessible to all.

The people at The Pantry are very kind. I always feel welcome. I look forward to seeing the smiles and being among friendly people as much as I do getting the food.

WHAT WE PROVIDE

Through its new Food Is Medicine Initiative, The Pantry provides nutrient-dense foods that are often the hardest for individuals and families to access—fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products, and frozen proteins. Providing these essential items along with nutrition education and ideas for preparing healthy meals supports health and well-being while easing the financial burden of rising food costs. The Pantry also offers diapers, personal care items and household supplies, which are not covered by public assistance programs. We have numerous specialty sections, including pet food and allergy-friendly provisions. Together, these resources ensure our clients have access to both nutritious food and daily essentials, delivered with dignity and care.

FOOD IS MEDICINE

A $15,000 grant from the Middlesex Savings Charitable Foundation launched the Franklin Food Pantry’s Food is Medicine Initiative by bringing a Registered Dietitian onto our team. Her expertise informs the development of our nutrition programming, ensuring it is evidence-based, practical, and responsive to the needs of the families we serve.

Nutritious food is one of the most powerful tools for improving health. Guided by our Registered Dietitian, our Food is Medicine Initiative helps clients discover, access, and enjoy healthy foods through nutrition education, fresh produce partnerships, healthy food sampling, and thoughtfully curated food recommendations throughout The Pantry. By making nutritious choices easier to understand, access, and incorporate into everyday life, we are helping build healthier futures for the families we serve.

FARMERS' MARKET

FRANKLIN FARMERS' MARKET EXPANSION

A $10,000 Whole Foods Community First Grant, supplemented by funding from CHNA 6, Dean Bank, the Franklin Interfaith Council, and generous individual donors allowed us to expand our outreach efforts at the Franklin Farmers' Market this year. Creating equitable access to healthy food goes beyond what happens at The Pantry. We connect neighbors to Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) and Healthy Incentives Program (HIP) benefits that make fresh, locally grown produce more affordable and accessible. Every eligible SNAP dollar spent on fruits and vegetables is matched dollar for dollar, doubling participants' purchasing power and helping households stretch their food budgets while supporting both immediate food security and long-term health.

I am so excited for The Pantry's Farmers' Market. The Food is Medicine project helps me continue healthier eating habits and trying new foods, especially vegetables that I haven't eaten before.

HOW WE SERVE

Clients can access nutritious food through a variety of Pantry shopping options, ensuring that each household chooses what best meets their needs. Through partnerships with the Franklin Farmers’ Market and contracted community growers, our programs put fresh, healthy produce directly into the hands of those who need it most. Our Food is Medicine efforts complement this work by providing nutrition education, recipes, and practical meal preparation ideas that help clients make the most of the foods they receive.

When partner organizations reach out with urgent referrals, we respond quickly, because helping in moments of crisis is at the heart of our mission. Together, these efforts reflect our commitment to ensuring that every client not only has access to healthy and nutritious food, but also to the respect and care they deserve.

GROWING INTENTIONALLY TO MEET RISING DEMANDS

In September 2025, The Pantry expanded its Tuesday evening curbside distribution program welcoming new clients from four neighboring towns: Bellingham, Medway, Norfolk, and Wrentham. Supported by the generosity of our community and the commitment of our volunteers, this expansion increased access to food assistance for clients across the region. The Pantry also added a fourth mobile pantry site in a low-income community, bringing nutritious food closer to residents who face transportation and mobility challenges.

PARTNER OF THE YEAR

THE GREATER BOSTON FOOD BANK 2025 AGENCY PARTNER OF THE YEAR

The Greater Boston Food Bank (GBFB) honored the Franklin Food Pantry with the 2025 Agency Partner of the Year Award. Each year, GBFB selects just one of its 600 regional distribution partners that has gone above and beyond to fulfill its mission to “End Hunger Here.”

The Pantry was chosen for its commitment to providing a dignified, client-centered experience and increasing access to healthy foods through intentional sourcing and specialized programming.

This prestigious award reflects the dedication of The Pantry’s Board, staff, and volunteers, and demonstrates the power of partnership. As food insecurity reached record levels across the Commonwealth, GBFB’s leadership, support, and commitment to nutritious food helped us respond to growing demand close to home. We are incredibly grateful to stand alongside GBFB in our shared work of building a healthier, hunger-free community.

The Franklin Food Pantry is a trusted resource for so many families, and its impact is felt every day in the community it serves. At a time when more households across Massachusetts are facing impossible tradeoffs to afford basic needs, partners like Franklin Food Pantry are helping us keep pace with rising demand and ensure consistent access to nutritious food in their community. This pantry is a model for responsive, community-driven hunger-relief, and we are honored to recognize their leadership this year.

Catherine D’Amato, Greater Boston Food Bank President & CEO

GREATER BOSTON FOOD BANK

The Greater Boston Food Bank (GBFB) is a major hunger-relief organization in New England, focused on combating food insecurity in Eastern Massachusetts. Their mission, “End Hunger Here,” aims to provide consistent access to healthy and nutritious food for everyone in need within their service area, including families, children, and seniors. GBFB acquires food through donations from the food industry and through financial contributions that enable them to purchase high-quality food.

GBFB supplies food, personal care items, and cleaning products to a network of over 600 partners including the Franklin Food Pantry. The majority of the food we distribute comes through this partnership. Six times each month, our refrigerated truck travels to GBFB’s regional cross-dock locations in Framingham and Walpole to bring these resources back to our community.

Our community is an equally important partner in this work. Thanks to the generosity of individuals, businesses, schools, faith communities, and civic organizations, 22% of the food and essential goods we distribute are donated locally.

FOOD PARTNERS

Partnerships facilitated through the Greater Boston Food Bank, including Spoonfuls and local grocery stores, are among The Pantry's most important food sources. Together, these partners help recover thousands of pounds of nutritious food that might otherwise go to waste, ensuring it reaches individuals and families facing food insecurity. Thanks to these strong community relationships and the dedication of our volunteers, food donations are received or collected at least 12 times each week.

VOLUNTEERS

This year, more than 560 dedicated volunteers gave their time to make The Pantry's work possible. Whether sorting donations, stocking shelves, assisting clients, or supporting community events, their service is the heart of our operations. More than just helping hands, our volunteers bring warmth, dignity, and compassion to every interaction.

The Pantry Board President's Volunteer Service Award recognizes and honors the positive impact of volunteer service on our community. The awards, given at our Annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon, are based on the number of hours volunteers have served during the previous calendar year. We extend our sincere congratulations and gratitude to this year's honorees, whose exceptional commitment and service help advance our mission every day.

G&C Plumbing, our Volunteer Luncheon Presenting Sponsor, helped make this event possible this year.

VOLUNTEER HIGHLIGHT

hours volunteered
by Carol in FY26

CAROL has been volunteering at The Pantry for more than four years. During that time, she has served as a weekly stocker and produce stocker and has also taken on roles in Lead Client Services, checkout, and truck unloading. She especially enjoys Lead Client Services, where she connects with clients and sees firsthand the strong partnerships that make The Pantry such an important part of the community. What motivates Carol to continue volunteering is seeing The Pantry offer nutritious, well-balanced food and necessities while providing essential resources and continuing to expand access to those resources.

Volunteering at the Franklin Food Pantry has been a very rewarding experience. If you are considering becoming a volunteer, your time and effort will go a long way toward supporting this invaluable organization—you may even meet a neighbor or make new connections along the way.

VOLUNTEER GROUPS

Volunteer groups are a powerful part of The Pantry community. From social clubs and civic groups to athletic teams and corporate partners, 34 groups joined us last year to take on special projects that keep our work moving forward. When groups volunteer, they not only help feed neighbors—they also build connections and strengthen the spirit of community. Gather your group and join us in making a difference!

THE LEAGUE SCHOOL FOR AUTISM is a private special education school serving students with developmental disabilities. It has volunteered with The Pantry since September 2023. Their program is built around the SCERTS® model, an evidence-based approach focused on social communication, emotional regulation, and support. Community-based vocational experiences are an essential part of the program, allowing students to apply their learning in real-world settings.

We are incredibly grateful for The Pantry’s ongoing support and dedication to creating an inclusive environment where our students are welcomed, encouraged, and valued. Partnerships like this help prepare our students for future employment while reinforcing their sense of belonging and connection to the community.

RUNNING WITH PURPOSE

Every year since 2012, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Franklin has organized and hosted the family-friendly Franklin Turkey Trot to benefit The Pantry. Held each Thanksgiving morning, the Turkey Trot has become a beloved community tradition, bringing together participants from across the region—from those who walk, trot, or run in costume to competitive runners chasing a personal best.

Partnering with The Pantry is a wonderful way to build friendships, strengthen the community and give hope. The past 14 years have established family traditions, lasting memories, and opened people’s eyes to the very real needs right around them while providing a means to alleviate and support them.

Race Co-Chairs Erin Campbell and Kirstin Cooper

We are grateful for support from more than 50 Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints volunteers, who coordinate every aspect of the event, as well as the generous support of our event sponsors. This year’s Turkey Trot raised nearly $55,000 to support The Pantry’s mission. Beyond the race, members of the Church volunteer regularly at The Pantry, helping unload deliveries, stock shelves, and ensure food and essential goods are available for our neighbors in need.

Supporting the Franklin Food Pantry isn't just another project for us at Camford, it's deeply personal. As a longtime Franklin resident, this is my home, and the people who rely on the Pantry are our neighbors, our friends, and our community. My team and I have always believed that our work is about so much more than concrete and hammers; it's about making sure the people inside those spaces have what they need to thrive.

Whether we're redesigning the loading dock so fresh food gets off the truck faster, building a picnic area where staff and volunteers can catch a well-deserved breath, or sponsoring the composting program, it all stems from a simple belief: It starts with People. Strong Relationships. Strong Results. To us, that isn't just a tagline; it's a daily promise. That's why our team stays on call for ongoing repairs whenever the Pantry needs a hand. We are honored to contribute over $25,000 in in-kind services and financial support, taking care of the building so the incredible team at the Pantry can focus on taking care of our community. It's our small way of saying thank you to a town that has given my family and our business so much.
